TWENTY HELD WHEN WOMAN IS MURDERED

Social Worker in California Found Beaten to Death Near San Diego

Y.W.C.A. SECRETARY WAS ON VACATION

LA JOLLA, Cal., Sept. 1 (AP).—Police took into custody more than twenty men tonight in connection with the brutal attack-slaying of Miss Ruth Muir, forty-eight-year-old welfare worker and daughter of a wealthy San Antonio, Tex., banker. The body of the woman, bruised, battered and almost unrecognizable, was found early today on the beach at La Jolla, playground of vacationing rich, on the outskirts of San Diego.

Y.W.C.A. SECRETARY Miss Muir, secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association at Riverside, Cal., a career she embarked upon after graduating from Wellesley College, was vacationing here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Muir, of San Antonio.

Her body was found near a beach bench overlooking the sea. The skull and jaw were broken and the ground was spotted with blood. Miss Muir left the house about 9:30 p.m. yesterday to put her car in the garage. When she failed to return her parents waited until midnight and then reported her missing.

FOUND BY WOMAN Her body was found today by Mrs. Ann Holden, who was out for a walk when she made the gruesome discovery. Captain of Detectives Harry J. Kelly said Miss Muir apparently had been criminally attacked and murdered.

A possible clue to the slaying was seen in the fact that the "Tomb" was observed late yesterday near the scene of the killing. Dr. F. E. Toomey, county autopsy surgeon, said that she apparently had been clubbed to death with some heavy instrument.

GLACIER PARK CAMP BURNED

Flaming Forests Create Serious Situation—Ninety Cabins Burned

GLACIER PARK, Mont., Sept. 1 (AP).—The worst forest fire in seven years whipped across the continental divide, cut a quick path of destruction across a popular summer resort and crinkled through valuable timber lands while 1,200 foresters battled in vain to check its advance tonight.

Guests in a Glacier Park hotel were forced to flee as the wall of fire—combined flames of three blazes which have burned for more than a week—roared and leaped, leveling a tourist camp of ninety cabins and destroying a ranger station.

Superintendent E. T. Scoyen said more than 6,000 acres of timber lands have been burned over. A special train brought trained fire fighters from Spokane Wash. to help battle the flames.

Despite the rapid sweep of the fire, Scoyen, cheered by a slight but steady rainfall, said it was possible the "forest fire" would be checked soon. No other buildings were in the path of the blaze.

JAPANESE FLAGS FOR BRITISH CELEBRATION

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—Union Jacks and other mementoes of the Coronation made in Japan are creating alarm among British manufacturers. Accurate copies of British and Dominion flags, it is said, already are being sold in large quantities at prices 60 per cent below the British product.

FLYERS REACH SIBERIA

MOSCOW, Sept. 1 (AP).—The Soviet aviators in "A" California-Moscow flight were reported tonight at Krasnoyarsk, Siberia. The fliers, Sigismund Levanevsky and Victor Levenchenko, took off from San Pedro, Calif., August 5 to fly here by way of Alaska and Siberia.

Rare Marine Spectacle Near Oak Bay Links

A ship high and dry on the rocks off Victoria's waterfront created a lot of interest for nearby residents as well as motorists, on the Marine Drive yesterday. Nearly midnight, on Monday, the seine boat Clermont, from Tacoma for Los Angeles, struck the Island shore in a dense fog. She was refloated yesterday afternoon by the Pacific Salvage Company, and brought into Victoria for survey.

The Clermont resumed her interrupted passage to California at 7:30 o'clock last evening.

Asking for Injunction Today in Court Against Bond Refunding Scheme

Military Doctor Leaves to Render Aid if Aviators Found

CALGARY, Sept. 1 (AP).—Major J. E. Hunter, medical officer of Military District No. 13, left today for Fort Reliance, N.W.T., where he is expected to stand by to render first aid should two airmen missing in the North country be found.

The airmen, Flight Lieutenant Sheldon Coleman and Aircraftsman J. Forty, have been unreported for sixteen days. They carried a week's supply of food and a fishing line, but no rifle.

Major Hunter went to Edmonton by train. The remainder of his trip would be made by airplane. Ordinary first aid materials comprised his equipment.

New Enactments Prepare Way for Credit Payments

Alberta Legislature Passes All Bills Deemed Necessary to Inaugurate New System of Provincial Dividends—Laws Dealing With Repayment of Debt Considered as Very Drastic

EDMONTON, Sept. 1 (AP).—Alberta's Legislature prorogued a special session tonight after providing for inauguration of Social Credit principles, bringing in the Government's opinion, election-promised basic dividends a step nearer, and approving legislation for extensive reduction of the debt burden on private individuals.

ROYAL YACHT IN TURKISH WATERS

His Majesty the King Is Greeted by Peasants When He Goes On Fishing Trip

IZMIR, Turkey, Sept. 1 (AP).—The yacht Nahlin, bearing King Edward and a party of friends, reached Turkish waters tonight after cruising through the Chalki straits and passing the islands of Skiathos and Skyros.

The King was cheered by Greek peasants as the yacht cruised along through the straits. The destroyers Graf and Glowworm followed in its wake.

Arriving on the Turkish side, the yacht moored at Imbros and the King went on a fishing expedition.

Sell Millions of Stamps First Day

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP).—The new King Edward VIII stamps, which were issued today, are selling fast. It is officially estimated that by tonight 30,000,000 will have been sold. They are available at the 25,000 postoffices in the United Kingdom until Saturday, when sale of stamps bearing the head of King George VI will be resumed until the supply is exhausted.

John Day Is Endeavoring to Restrain City From Entering Agreement

WRIT IS SERVED ON CITY COMPTROLLER

An injunction to restrain the City Council from entering into an agreement with Charles S. Henley, 51 per cent interest on $12,656, 222.21 worth of Victoria bonds, will be sought by Frank Higgins, K.C., before Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in Supreme Court chambers this morning.

Mr. Higgins is representing John Day, a ratepayer of the city. A Supreme Court writ was served yesterday afternoon on D. A. McDonald, city comptroller and treasurer, who immediately conferred with Alderman Percy R. Brown, chairman of the council finance committee; H. S. Pringle, city solicitor; and Elliott, Maclean & Shandley. The legal firm will represent the city in court today.

Up to the time of a City Council meeting on Monday evening, Mr. Henley's financial scheme was kept secret, and several aldermen, interviewed yesterday, were of the opinion.

EXHAUSTED BY SCORCHING SUN

Eight Marooned for Hours When Air Liner Forced Down in Desert

KARACHI, India, Sept. 1 (AP).—A group of eight passengers of the Imperial Airways plane Hesperia, who arrived here from Bahrain.

The travelers were marooned for thirty hours in the Arabian Desert when the airliner made a forced landing, forty miles south of Salalah. The plane's landing gear was damaged and its occupants were obliged to wait under a scorching sun for aid.

The group subsisted on small rations of chocolate, biscuit and mineral water, lying under the plane's wings to escape the direct rays of the sun.

On Saturday afternoon the pilot and first officer both suffered fainting spells while trying to repair the plane. Help finally arrived and the exhausted party was taken to Bahrain.

LADY CHAMBERLAIN CHRISTENS WARSHIP

DEVONPORT, Sept. 1 (AP).—The 1,000-ton cruiser Birmingham was launched here today. Lady Chamberlain, wife of Sir Austen Chamberlain, officiated at the christening ceremony. The ship will not be completed until next July. It will have a speed of thirty-two knots and will carry twelve six-inch guns and eight four-inch anti-aircraft guns.

NEW SESSION IN OCTOBER

Municipal Relations and Growing Problem of Relief Under Review

British Columbia legislators will be summoned to the fourth session of the present Legislature, and the second of the present year, towards the end of October, Premier Pattullo said yesterday.

The Government expects to place a light programme of legislation before the House, dealing mainly with municipal relations, and has already indicated. Departmental legislation otherwise will not be heavy.

Either before the session or after it, a point not yet decided, leaders of the Provincial Government expect to come in contact with the Dominion Government at Ottawa on several issues remaining to be settled. Premier Pattullo and possibly other members of the Cabinet will go East on the mission, when a date has been fixed.

RELIEF DRAIN

Considered non-politically, British Columbia's immediate problems include a growing unfunded debt, mostly for relief purposes, which now amounts to about one and a half times the guarantee on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. At that level the unfunded debt is materially in excess of a full year's income to the Province.

In addition, the prosecution of refunding policies, without immediate prospect of refunding, has led to creation of a considerable gap in sinking funds, unofficially estimated as some 20 per cent below technical requirements.

Faced by the position of borrowing to maintain its sinking funds or to maintain its roads, the Province has adopted the latter course.

The Fraser River Bridge is proving an expensive side-issue. Municipal aid, now being floundered at, is alienated at the coming session, with health insurance and its attendant levies just around the corner.

For these, and for other reasons dictated by necessity, the Province

AMALGAMATING HEALTH BOARDS

Metropolitan Area for Vancouver to Be Formed—Government Aids

VANCOUVER, Sept. 1 (AP).—The Vancouver City Council today approved the principle for a metropolitan health board and authorized Dr. J. W. McIntosh, medical health officer, to proceed with arrangements to establish necessary machinery.

Action by the council climaxed nearly two years' campaigning by Dr. McIntosh and other prominent Lower Mainland health authorities for the scheme under which it is proposed to amalgamate the health services of Vancouver, Richmond, Burnaby, North Vancouver City and District and the university endowment lands.

Financing of the plan will be with the support of the Rockefeller Institute, which has agreed to contribute a total of $50,000 over a five-year period, and by the Provincial Government, which has agreed to contribute a like amount.

SACRIFICE HOSTAGES AS IRAN FIGHT IS RENEWED

Five Years Will See London Free From Slum Areas

HALIFAX, Sept. 1 (AP).—Great Britain would be rid of slum districts within five years, declared Sir Raymond Unwin, a member of the British Government's advisory committee on housing and planning. A programme was at present being executed to provide an additional 3,000,000 homes.

Vatican Not In Favor of Mystic Play

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 1 (CP-Havas).—The Quercetore Romano, official Vatican organ, tonight directed a protest against the forthcoming presentation in the Theatre of Pompeii of Gabrielle d'Annunzio's mystic drama, "The Martyrdom of St. Sebastian."

BURRARD POLL HAS SPOTLIGHT

Results From Vancouver By-Election Will Be Known This Evening

Results in the Vancouver-Burrard by-election will be watched by Premier Pattullo and members of the Cabinet for the result in the Burrard by-election will be known this evening. Polling will commence at 8 o'clock in the morning, and will last until 8 o'clock at night, when polls will be closed. Some 33,000 voters are eligible to record their ballots in the riding.

Hon. John Hart and Hon. Gordon M. Sloan, K.C., closed the campaign from the Government's side yesterday, last-minute appeals being made by all parties represented in the test. No official predictions were made.

ISSUE OF INTEREST Government circles made no secret of their desire to retain Burrard's vacant seat in the Liberal fold, both as a flip to the prestige of the present provincial administration, and also as a talking point in subsequent Federal negotiations.

On the other hand, the Conservative party was no less anxious for success at the polls, where the fortunes of the new provincial leader of the party itself are at stake.

The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation also reared the Burrard by-election with special interest, concerned with the fate of its newly chosen leader, and somewhat uneasy as to the effect of the split in the C.C.F. ranks from the Telford-Connell controversy.

One other candidate, an Independent Socialist, is entered on the ballot papers, with four standing for a seat.

Preliminary returns from the polls should be available soon after 10 o'clock this evening.

Over Eighty Legion Members Denounced By Report of Jury

Black "Klan" Organized for Force and Violence Included Many Important Public Men—Judge Declares Politics Spelled Its Death

DETROIT, Sept. 1 (AP).—While twelve shackled members of the Black Legion were led into Circuit Court today for trial on murder charges, a Grand Jury denounced the hooded order as a politically ambitious guerilla band mentally incapable of wrestling control from established authority.

The Black Legion was a Klan with a vengeance, the report of the Oakland County (Mich.) Grand Jury said, "organized to accomplish its objects by force and violence."

It was a Black Klan, the report, signed by Circuit Judge George B. Hartwick, named eighty-five men as having belonged to the night riding organization.

Chained in Street When Fellow-Rebels' Shells Fall In Furious Offensive by Air and Land—Struggle Proceeding With Undiminished Ferocity, With Outcome Still Uncertain

Rebels Protest to Geneva For Bombing of Hospital

BARCELONA, Spain, Sept. 1 (AP).—Spanish Rebel forces late today launched a furious offensive on Loyalist-held Tarragona. Aerial dog-fighting over No Man's Land, retaliatory plane bombardments, a thunderous artillery barrage followed by an infantry attack and tanks, armored cars and machine guns going into action, featured the drive as the Loyalist militia fought back desperately.

In making good their threat to "reduce Tarragona to ashes," the insurgents used every weapon at their command to capture the city and open the gateway to strategic San Sebastian.

The Loyalists also making good their threat, chained Rebel hostiles in the streets of the besieged city and left them helpless before the rain of bombs and artillery shells.

CASUALTIES UNLIMITED Casualties were unlimited, but it was known some 1,000 killed and many wounded in the preparatory air raid on Tarragona early in the day. It was the fifth major attempt to take Tarragona, which Rebel headquarters at Burgos is trying to crush as a final offensive on Madrid would not be exposed to attack from the rear. The volunteer militia, who stubbornly held their positions throughout the previous onslaughts, were just as determined to fight to the last man. The struggle up to the time of "letting this day's watch tonight" was proceeding with undiminished ferocity with no indication as to its ultimate outcome.

BOMBS AKE EFFECT Shortly after dawn Rebel planes roared out of the mountains before Tarragona and unleashed scores of bombs over the city. The main objective

GRANBY MAY REOPEN MINE

Sharp Rise in Copper Prices Causing Liquidators to Reconsider Policy

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP).—The Herald Tribune will say tomorrow that officials of Granby Consolidated Smelting, Mining & Power Co., Ltd., are discussing plans for reopening the Allenby properties of the company at Allenby in the Albany district of British Columbia. A proposal to that effect will be submitted to stockholders at a special meeting in the near future.

The mines were closed in 1930 when copper was selling at a low price. Directors and liquidators of the company were said to have concluded that, in view of the sharp rise in copper prices recently, the mines could not be worked at a profit.

Early this year stockholders of Granby approved voluntary liquidation of the company. A. S. Baillie and Nathan L. Amster were appointed liquidators. In 1935 the company produced 23,503,119 pounds of copper, 269,822 ounces of silver and 3,265 ounces of gold.

COMMENT WITHHELD VANCOUR, Sept. 1 (AP).—In the absence of executives no comment was available here tonight on a New York dispatch reporting officials of the Granby Consolidated Smelting, Mining & Power Co., Ltd. were discussing plans to reopen.

CANADIAN FLYER DODGES BULLETS

Winnipeg Man Flying for News- reel Company Has Narrow Escape

BURGOS, Spain, Sept. 1 (AP).—Carl Reas, of Winnipeg, pilot of a new airplane, told tonight of his narrow escape from Rebel bullets and anti-aircraft guns.

He said he arrived Monday from Seville a short while after Government planes had bombed Burgos which is held by the Rebels. He was taking him for a Government aviator, Reas said, through the sun crew fired several rounds at him before he was able to make his identity known.

Reas, who was flying for a news-reel company, said he was able to make his identity known.

NEW approaches were made on the eve of a Cabinet meeting tomorrow to discuss developments in Spain. Neither Foreign Secretary Eden nor Prime Minister Baldwin will attend. Eden is confined to his room with a temperature, and Baldwin has not returned from his holiday.

Eden nations have joined the international 25-nation "White" Brigade to support the British troops called to the Holy Land to assist in the problems of volunteers joining both sides in the war and popular subscriptions of money by Labor and Fascist groups outside Spain.

HIGHLANDERS WOUNDED IN CLASH WITH ARABS

JERUSALEM, Sept. 1 (CP-Havas).—Two Cameron Highlanders, attached to the British troops contingents called to the Holy Land to assist in the problems of volunteers joining both sides in the war and popular subscriptions of money by Labor and Fascist groups outside Spain, were wounded when their detachment clashed with Arabs between Jerusalem and Nablus early today.

Citizens of All Nations Meeting To Preach Peace

International Gathering at Brussels to Devise Ways of Advancing Propaganda Against War—Sessions Are Under Leadership of Viscount Cecil and Pierre Cot, French Air Minister

PARIS, Sept. 1 (P).—Thousands of Europeans, rallying to the call "Peace is in danger," headed for Brussels tonight for an international congress against war. Mindful of the danger Spain's civil war might spread to a Fascist-Socialist duel of European powers, the delegates went as private citizens to voice their demand for peace above that of diplomatic conversation.

The popular movement began as a sequel to private conversations between French and German war veterans and grew to become the universal union for peace. More than 100,000 joined in the union's first meeting. Two thousand Frenchmen, headed by Pierre Cot, Minister of Air, were among those departing tonight for the Brussels sessions, which open on Thursday.

UNIVERSAL CREDO
The peace committee sponsoring the gathering asserted: "Delegates will seek in common the best means of propaganda to make peace the credo of every person on this earth, to render impossible the sinister work of those who wish, for their profit, to plunge humanity into a new caldron."

The union, jointly presided over by Cot and Viscount Cecil of England, has based its work on four fundamental principles:

1. Recognition of the inevitability of obligations arising from solemnly concluded treaties.
2. Reduction and limitation of armaments by international accord and elimination of profits from munitions industries.

Get Good View of Spanish Fighting

That strip across the road is all that divides French territory from Spanish territory in the village of Hendaye, France. This community faces iron on the Spanish side, where a nerve-barricade is being fought between Loyalists and Rebels. The frontier has been closed since the start of hostilities, but refugees are constantly pouring over the French border. French officials have ordered spectators to move back from the border, because of occasional shells dropping in the area.

TOLEDO, Spain, Sept. 1.—Two Communist defenders of the city of Toledo tonight prepared to dynamite the famous fortress of the Alcázar.

If the 1,700 besieged rebels—men, women and children—within its crumbling walls do not surrender.

While Government artillery kept pounding away at the massive fortress, the occupants of which have held out against a six-week siege, tunnelers dug under the sides and laid heavy dynamite mines.

Within a week some twenty tons of dynamite will have been placed and wired for simultaneous firing, leaders said.

When the mines are completed the rebels will be given their last opportunity to surrender.

From loudspeakers edged close to the walls of the fortress, Government officials will call upon the besieged men to lay down their arms and march out of the fort.

If the rebels refuse, a bullet will be pressed and the historic building will be blown to bits.

—APPROACHING MALAGA

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 1 (P).—Refugees reaching here today said rebel forces were within three miles of Malaga and surrender of the city appeared inevitable.

The group of seventy-seven fugitives arrived on a British destroyer.

They said rebel planes bombed Malaga. Government-held airport on the southern coast, during the morning, inflicting severe damage to the airport.

HOSPITAL BOMBED

(Copyright, 1936, by The Associated Press.)

BURGOS, Spain, Sept. 1.—The first Government air raid on Fascist headquarters here and bombardment of a rebel hospital, with four dead and twenty-three injured, roused rebels to angry protest tonight to the International Red Cross at Geneva.

General Miguel Cabanillas in a telegram to Geneva, assailed the hospital, wrecked by the air bombardment, displayed clearly its Red Cross insignia.

Four bodies were dropped.

Patients, out for an airing in the courtyard, limped hastily to cover as the projectiles fell. Hundreds were knocked down. Windows were smashed. Two operating rooms were wrecked.

SURGEON WOUNDED

A surgeon, blood-bespattered and weary, pointed to the operating rooms.

A wounded officer said: "I can't be Spanish who do this! It must be madmen!"

Two relatives, keeping a wake over the body of an assault guard-killed in battle, were among the dead. The body of the soldier was hurled into the courtyard of the hospital.

Three of the eighteen injured patients were reported near death. Five soldiers passing by the hospital, including two women, comprised the other wounded.

Rebel leaders, whose planes have been bombing the Socialist capital of Madrid for the past week, said one bomb actually struck the hospital building proper.

PLANES IN DOG-FIGHT

Later a spectacular "dog-fight" developed over No Man's Land, with a plane from the Burgos Rebel headquarters and a Government machine exchanging bursts of machine gun fire for ten minutes, and at each attack eluding the other's aim.

Three shells had fallen on Spanish territory up to tonight, but without injuring anyone or doing much damage.

A move to advance on Irun from Mount Turislar and a change in the Loyalist positions around La Punched were the only discernible shifts in the struggle at this hour.

MADRID BOMBED AGAIN

MADRID, Sept. 1 (P).—Defences against rebel air raids on the capital were elaborated today after a new dawn attack was driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

The bombing squadron dropped explosives into the city streets for three-quarters of an hour, the Ministry of War announced, before anti-aircraft and machine gun batteries repelled it.

Warned by screaming sirens and the crisis-against the night sky, frightened residents, many of them aroused from sleep, scurried for subway stations and basements.

EMERGENCY PLANS

The Government announced no one was injured and no serious damage was done, but emergency plans were hurried to protect the city from the recurring bombardments.

Beside aircraft detectors, searchlights and anti-aircraft artillery which already had been installed, the Government put the population on guard.

Loud speakers were erected at points of the city to broadcast signal warnings as soon as the detectors pick up the distant drone of rebel warplanes. Street cars were equipped with siren green lights invisible from the air and general orders were issued for all residents to seek shelter in basements, subways and lower floors at the first warning.

DETAILS SUPPRESSED

A query to Madrid for details of the damage caused by the air raid was answered: "The censor does not allow me to answer your query."

Reorganization of the Cabinet to give representation to additional factions of the Popular Front political coalition was reported under consideration.

An unrepentant dispatch from Madrid, played by courier to Hendaye, France, estimated casualties of the first five weeks of Spain's civil war at from 75,000 to 100,000 dead and about 300,000 wounded.

TOWNS DEPOPULATED

Official circles are understood to admit privately the war dead is in the neighborhood of 85,000. Many small towns have been virtually depopulated, through executions and losses in battle by both sides.

The Government said rebel air raiders were driven from Bilbao by a Loyalist submarine which fired from the dock where it was being repaired.

Social Credit Is Described as Cure For Canada's Ills

Norman Jaques, M.P., and Alberta Speakers Tell Victoria Audience of Their Faith in Aberrant Policies on the Prairies

"If we can finance war, and we have financed war, we can finance peace if we want to, when finance is used in the service of the people. The people of Alberta see that, if they are willing to co-operate, they do not need to lie down and die because they have no money, but they can do business among themselves," Norman Jaques, M.P., told a Victoria audience last evening.

Mr. Jaques, an Alberta Social Credit member of the House of Commons, delivered a two-hour address at the "Truth Centre, Fort Street," under auspices of the Social Credit League of British Columbia, with Major A. H. Jukes in the chair. He was given an attentive hearing, and responded later to a question period. Mrs. McLeod, president of the Social Credit Women's League of Edmonton, spoke briefly.

NORMAN JAUQUES, M.P.

"After I had sat in the House of Commons for five months, I returned to Alberta recently, more than ever convinced that in Social Credit, we have the only practical solution of our problems," Mr. Jaques declared, in opening.

"You must realize that all money is created by the banks, on the word of Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, and that it is created on the ratio of ten to one. Our quarrel is not with the bankers, but with the system under which all money, without which no one can live, is controlled by private corporations who are under no control themselves," he continued.

"We believe that the control of credit and currency should be restored to the people, to the King if you wish, and the present Prime Minister promised no less than that, but he did not fulfill his promise. Indeed, the Liberals and the Conservatives are at one in this, the preservation of 'orthodox finance'."

PRINCIPLES GIVEN

Enumerating some of the principles of Social Credit, Mr. Jaques said that under the present system a chronic shortage of purchasing power must result from industry for several reasons, the payment of interest being one. Collectively, the people could not pay interest, because they had received only the principal in the first place. National debts could never be paid under the present arrangement without the creation of still greater debt.

Tariffs were effects and not causes, and restrictively lead to war. Social Crediters believed in the exchange of surplus only after full domestic consumption. Behind Social Credit was the belief that consumption should be financed directly so that the people could consume what they desired, limited only by their ability to produce.

To take care of those who could not produce, a national cash dividend was proposed, payable to all irrespective of their status; while inflation would be averted by distribution of the bulk of the remaining national dividend in lowered retail prices, generally. Merchants, in this, would be assured of a state guarantee against loss.

ECONOMIC FREEDOM

"Social Credit is more than a system of economics. It is a philosophy of life, and of freedom. We believe that the state must exist for the individual, and that to political freedom must be added economic freedom if we are to escape dictatorship and slavery such as has already come to a considerable part of the world. Social Credit is neither Fascism nor Communism."

Distinguished Pilots Entered for Race to Africa From England

Fourteen Aviators Will Compete for £10,000 Prize Offered by African Millionaire—Race Confined to Britishers and British Planes

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 1 (AP).—The first of fourteen competitors in the Great Britain-Johannesburg air race will take off from here on September 29, it was announced today. Included in the field will be G. W. A. Scott, winner with T. Campbell Black of the London-Melbourne Air Derby in October, 1934. Scott will be at the controls of a Percival Vega machine.

A BREAKER OF RECORDS
Another competitor will be Flight-Lieutenant Tommy Rose, of the Royal Air Force, a highly-favored candidate because of his record-breaking flight to Capetown and back in November, 1933. Rose held the records for the London-Cape town trip, for the return and for the round trip—until they were lowered in May of this year—by Mrs. Amy Mollison. Rose will fly a B.A. Double Eagle.

The chief South African threat will be Victor Smith in a Miles Sparrowhawk. The Sparrowhawk flyer made a near-record round-trip flight on the London-Cape town route in 1932-33. In addition to Smith there will be two other South African entrants and one from India.

PRIZE IS £10,000
First out of the sky at Johannesburg will draw down a prize of £10,000 ($50,000), donated by I. W. Schlesinger, South African millionaire, in connection with the British Empire Exhibition which opens at the South African city, September 15.

The planes will leave Portsmouth at one-minute intervals, starting at 6:15 a.m. There will be only one official control station at Cairo, although competitors must be seen turning at Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

BRITISHERS ONLY
Unlike the London to Melbourne Derby, the race is confined to British pilots and British-built aircraft. The competing planes will be three Percival Mew Gulls, four Percival Vegas, three Miles, two B.A. Eagles, one De Havilland and one Alispred Envoy.

Schlesinger's aims in promoting the air-Derby were said to be the development of British commercial aircraft, the promotion of air interest on the part of citizens of the British Empire and, chiefly, to focus attention on the Johannesburg exhibition.

Quicksilver Price Rises as Spanish Shipments Cease
NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP).—With shipments of quicksilver from Spain, the largest world producer, virtually stopped by the civil war, New York quotations for the metal soared today to $83.50 to $85 per flask of seventy-six pounds.

That level contrasted with Monday's quotation of $74.50 to $75. Local dealers said the market was more nominal than firm, as large consumers were reported stocked for about six months ahead.

MANY EVENTS ARRANGED FOR CHILDREN

Willows Exhibition Officials Plan Competitions for Boys and Girls

PROVINCIAL FAIR TO OPEN HERE SEPT. 12

For the second successive year there will be several judicious competitions for children and young people at the twenty-fifth annual Provincial Exhibition to be held under the auspices of the B.C. Agricultural Association at the Willows during the week of September 12.

Because of the great assistance they proved to the boys and girls in their training for farm work, the association this year decided once more to incorporate these competitions in the exhibition. W. H. Mearns, secretary, announced yesterday, in stating the prize list this year was highly attractive.

STOCK JUDGING
One of the features of these competitions is the stock-judging contest to be held on Thursday, September 17, at 9:30 a.m. The young people taking part in the contest will be between the ages of twelve and twenty-one years and will judge heavy horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and swine. Entries will close on September 12.

To give the children an opportunity of displaying showmanship, a showmanship contest will follow the stock-judging event at 2:30 p.m. This competition is open to boys and girls under eighteen years of age. A round-hunter competition will be held on September 18 at 2:30 p.m. under the supervision of T. G. Stewart, of the Dominion Livestock Branch. Entries will close the day prior to the competition.

POULTRY CONTEST
On September 12 the entries for the individual poultry-judging competition for boys and girls under twenty-one years will close. Mr. Mearns said. This competition will be held at 2:30 p.m. on Friday, September 18. At 1:30 p.m. on that day the individual judging contest will be held with only members of Boys' and Girls' Canadian Provincial Poultry Clubs allowed as entrants. Boys and girls, too, will have two opportunities to display their poultry. Further information can be secured from J. R. Terry, at the Parliament Buildings.

There will be, of course, the regular stock displaying competition for the youngsters. This will be held during the entire week of the fair.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK
OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (AP).—Fire prevention week this year will run from October 4 to 10, inclusive, according to a proclamation published last night in an extra edition of The Canada Gazette.

The navy minister, Casimir Du Parc, went to Calais today to begin a flying inspection tour of coastal defences in which he will study the possibilities of establishing new air bases.

Poland's "strong man," Edward Rydz-Smigly, for the second day viewed secret French army manoeuvres along the German frontier, escorted by Air Minister Pierre Cot, Edward Daladier, Minister of Defence, and President Albert Lebrun.

Together they turned the battle of the Champagne sector. The visit of Rydz-Smigly and the redoubled efforts to strengthen France's border defences were linked by "informed circles" to the tugsten a Franco-Polish alliance. Interest in the Rumanian situation was heightened with Bucharest reports that the new Cabinet had decided to introduce compulsory labor.

This, it was feared, would tend to place the youth of Rumania under the influence of Rightist organizations friendly to Nazi Germany.

AUSTRALIA PREPARED TO DEFEND HERSELF AS PART OF EMPIRE
TORONTO, Sept. 1 (AP).—Australia is spending more money on defence and adding to naval, military and aerial equipment, said Hon. B. B. Stewart, Prime Minister of New South Wales, on arrival here tonight en route from England to Australia, via Vancouver.

We have a definite defence policy, and feel we must be prepared to defend ourselves and make our resources a unit in the general scheme of Empire defence," he said.

Obituary
ODDY—Funeral services for Mrs. John Oddy, who passed away on Sunday, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in St. John's Church. The Rev. Canon Terry will officiate. Interment will be made in Colwood Burial Park.

Obituary
NORRIS—A large congregation of sympathetic friends and a procession of beautiful floral tributes marked the funeral of the late John William Norris, which took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the funeral home of Rev. F. W. Wages officiating. The hymns sung were "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Peace, Perfect Peace." Interment was made in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: C. W. Hawkins, C. Newman, G. Bromley, A. Sinclair, K. Murray and R. T. Borrowman.

Obituary
RUDDELL—The funeral for Daniel Rudde, who passed away last Thursday evening, took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in St. John's Church. The Rev. Canon Terry officiated. The hymns sung were "How Sweet Is the Name of Jesus," and "Interment was made in the churchyard. The following acted as pallbearers: R. S. Oliver, Albert Rhode, P. Homer and W. Dallimore.

Clan Chieftain Will Visit City Today

LORD REAY

CHIEFTAIN of the Clan Mackay, who will arrive in Victoria this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock from Seattle, accompanied by Lady Reay, and will receive a welcome from members of the clan who reside in Victoria and the surrounding districts. Lord Reay, who is tallied of the British peers, is on a round-the-world honeymoon tour with his bride.

FRENCH MAKING NEW DEFENCES

New Projects Are Planned—Polish Strong Man Sees Those in Effect

PARIS, Sept. 1 (AP).—French military and civil leaders tonight worked out new military defences while those already in effect were shown to Poland's "strong man."

After conferences between political and military leaders had been held throughout the day, it was announced that the War Ministry had informed the Government of new defence projects which will be the objects of Government deliberations.

The navy minister, Casimir Du Parc, went to Calais today to begin a flying inspection tour of coastal defences in which he will study the possibilities of establishing new air bases.

Canadian Chamber Of Commerce Pays Tribute to Pacts

In Memorandum Outlining Attitude to Be Taken At Imperial Federation Congress, Ottawa Agreements Are Credited With Stimulating Trade

MONTREAL, Sept. 1 (AP).—A memorandum outlining principles which should be followed for consolidation of Empire trade was adopted today by the executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. It will be submitted to the fourteenth congress of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, to be held October 2 to 7 at Wellington, N.Z.

W. M. Birks, of Montreal, a vice-president of the federation, who will head the Canadian delegation, will present the memorandum to the New Zealand Congress.

Empire agreements of 1932 "aiming as they did at a great stability and flow of trade," have been of practical value in the promotion of Empire commerce, the memorandum states. So long as the basic principles embodied in the present agreements are not disturbed, it suggests it is impractical whether new agreements are inaugurated or supplementary agreements are made providing for revisions which may be found necessary.

FIVE SUGGESTIONS
Governments of the Empire can expedite Imperial trade further, it is suggested, through the following means:

1. Bringing about further simplification and greater uniformity of customs regulations including documentary requirements.

2. Interpretation of customs regulations in the spirit of the agreements.

3. More general extension in Empire trade agreements of those concessions which have proved valuable in the development of British industries.

4. Co-ordination of Empire trade statistics and their issuance with more dispatch.

5. Freer dissemination of pooled Empire commercial intelligence data.

Look for Sinner Who Stole Church
SUFFOLK, Va., Sept. 1 (AP).—Negro members of the Holiness Church of God in Christ are looking for the sinner who stole their church.

The single-story frame building was in its proper place when the owner, Colonel John P. Pepper, passed by recently. When he looked a few moments later it was gone.

A posse from the congregation began a search for the church.

SPEAKER SAYS FAIRS VALUABLE
Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie Urges Support for Local Exhibition in Address Here

"In Great Britain they are producing more wheat per acre than we are with our virgin soil," Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., president of the B.C. Agricultural Association, told members of the Victoria-Horticultural Society last night in the City Hall in speaking on "The Value of Our Fairs."

Dr. Percy Vincent, Lord Mayor of London, had told him "Canadians are mining the country instead of farming it," Dr. Tolmie declared. Although the departments of agriculture and experimental stations were doing a great work in advancing agriculture here, the farmer by having him complete it.

Dr. Tolmie listed the following as attractions to be found at the fair: Heavy horses and heavy horse teams; saddle and jumping horses; largest exhibit of cattle, sheep, swine, goats, and other livestock; stock parade; district exhibits; field crop and grain shows; fruit, flower and vegetable displays; loggers' contest; horse racing and the midway.

WHEAT FROM ALBERTA REACHES VANCOUVER
VANCOUVER, Sept. 1 (AP).—The first two cars of new crop wheat reached Vancouver via Canadian National Railways on Friday. It was a happy omen for future deliveries at port of Vancouver that both have graded number one northern, according to advices received by the C.N.R. today.

M. C. Lamber and J. M. Kelly, Munson, Alta., and United Grain Growers' Ltd., Trochu, Alta., were the shippers. The Munson car being consigned to Alberta wheat pool and the Trochu car to United Grain Growers' Ltd.

Both cars were delivered to the U.G.G. elevator here and mark the first truck of new crop grain into this outlet on the Pacific.

LIBRARIANS TO CONVENE HERE

Annual Conference of B.C. Association Will Be Held Next Monday

The programme of the twenty-fifth annual conference of the British Columbia Library Association, to take place at the Provincial Library, Victoria, next Monday, has now come to the press.

and shows two or three alterations since the original announcement of the speakers. One of the most important is that Dr. T. A. Rickard, A.R.S.M., D.Sc., will take the place of Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, who is going East as speaker at the luncheon at the Empress Hotel. Dr. Rickard's subject will be "Books and Libraries in Different Lands."

As already announced, there will be three sessions: morning, afternoon and evening.

Following are the details:
MORNING SESSION
Registration—9 to 9:30 a.m.

Greetings—Miss Margaret Gray, Victoria Public Library; Miss Lucy M. Lewis, president Pacific Northwest Library Association; John Ridington, president Canadian Library Council; Carl Milam, American Library Association; and Norman Lidster, Public Library Commission.

Roll call of libraries.
Reports—Secretary, Miss Dorothy Hay, minutes; treasurer, Miss Adelaide Pearson; auditing committee; standing committees.

Remarks by Miss Alma Russell, the president, unfinished business, new business, including discussion of amendments to the constitution and the conferring of honorary memberships.

Address by Herbert Kilham, Looking Backward, 1936-1911, a sketch of the British Columbia Library Association.

LUNCHEON AND AFTERNOON
At 12:30 p.m. the luncheon will take place at the Empress Hotel, when the board of trustees of the Victoria Public Library will be the hosts, with Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., as chairman. Mayor David Leeming will extend greetings to the guests, and Dr. Rickard will give his address on "Books and Libraries in Different Lands."

Dr. Kaye Lamb, provincial architect and librarian, will open the afternoon session with a talk on "Adult Education in British Columbia," and this will be followed by an address by Robert England, of the University of British Columbia, on "Adult Education and the Role of Libraries in Its Scheme."

The discussion to follow will be led by E. S. Robinson, head of the Vancouver Public Library.

During the afternoon there will also be a discussion on the work of the bibliography committee. The discussion will be led by Dr. Kaye Lamb. Other afternoon business will consist of the report of the

FAIRS INSTRUCTIVE
Exhibitions similar to the one to be held in Victoria during the week of September 12, were interesting and instructive to the farmers, by showing them how they can make improvements. Exhibitions, said Dr. Tolmie, were the show windows of the possibilities of the district from whence the exhibits came.

Fairs enabled the city and country people to meet together and reach a better understanding and merchants made splendid business contacts at the fairs. Competitive exhibitions, he continued, raised the standards of production. They aroused the ambition of both old and young. The boys' and girls' prizes, too, were great and important features of the fairs, for they enabled the children to return to the farm better equipped to carry on the work on the land.

Dr. Tolmie listed the following as attractions to be found at the fair: Heavy horses and heavy horse teams; saddle and jumping horses; largest exhibit of cattle, sheep, swine, goats, and other livestock; stock parade; district exhibits; field crop and grain shows; fruit, flower and vegetable displays; loggers' contest; horse racing and the midway.

Many Rabbits to Be Displayed at Exhibition Here

Between 175 and 200 rabbits from the British Columbia Rabbit Breeders' Association will be on display at the Provincial Exhibition at the Willows, it was announced last night following a meeting of the organization.

Arrangements have been made so that rabbits can be brought in to the rabbit building and housed on Friday, September 11, the day preceding the fair opening. Angora rabbits will be judged on Saturday morning. C. Woolley will be judge, while F. P. Boucher will be superintendent at the building.

It was also decided that the association would send between twenty and thirty rabbits to the Saanichton fair. Tom Clarke will be judge at the Saanichton exhibition.

FORMER RESIDENT OF PROVINCE DIES AT OKOTOKS, ALTA.
VANCOUVER, Sept. 1 (AP).—Funeral services were held here today for Robert W. Fraser, former alderman and one-time Vancouver school teacher, who died last Friday in Okotoks, Alta. Interment was in the family plot at Sapperton Cemetery.

Born in Nova Scotia, Mr. Fraser was vice-principal and principal of different schools here in the early days, and in 1900 was elected alderman for Mount Pleasant district.

Later he moved to Ottawa where he was chief tax collector of immigration for a number of years. He had been retired for the past four years.

QUEEN MARY'S PERFORMANCES

The Queen Mary has regained for Great Britain the trans-Atlantic speed records on the eastern and western voyages. She made the westward trip at an average speed of 30.1 knots and the eastward voyage at a speed of 30.63 knots. The crossing of the Atlantic from New York to England has now been brought within four days. Speed in every form of transportation has been increasing within recent years, on land, on sea and in the air, and speed is the passion of the hour. The Queen Mary was not racing in either of her two achievements. Weather conditions were good, and so Sir Edgar Britten took advantage of that fact, and the vessel exceeded its scheduled speed of 28.50 knots, one object being to secure some data which will be used in the construction of No. 552, the "star" ship to the Queen Mary, which is to be laid down at the Clydebank yards of Messrs. John Brown & Co. during the coming Autumn.

The new vessel to be constructed will have a higher speed than the Queen Mary. It is expected to show an average speed of 33 knots, and to be capable of reaching 36 knots. The new vessel will cost $27,500,000, or $2,500,000 more than the Queen Mary, and will be launched in 1938 and put into commission in 1940. Now that Great Britain has regained the blue ribbon of the Atlantic she is determined to hold it for many years to come.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY IN GERMANY

The Confessional section of the German National Church is making a brave stand for religious liberty in that country. For the past two years this group has been opposing the avowed Nazi policy of making the church a department of the State. Recently ten leaders of the Confessional Synod sent Fuehrer Hitler a 4,000-word protest against various tendencies in the nationalist movement, which, in respectful but outright terms, indicted the present Government for its denial of religious freedom. It is charged that animosity to Christianity is really a part of the official programme. Attention is called to the fact that 700 pastors have been imprisoned since March, 1935. Definite de-Christianization has been effected in the destruction of the religious training schools and the corruption of religious teaching in secular schools. The use of oaths is objected to, especially of the oath to Hitler that are demanded of young people, in that all oaths of loyalty among Christians are subject to the reservation that "we must obey God rather than man."

The bold and unequivocal character of the arraignment against Aryanism as a religion for the nation and against anti-Semitism is shown in the following sentences: "When blood, race, nationality, and honor are raised to the rank of qualities that guarantee eternity, the evangelical Christian is bound by the first commandment to reject the assumption. While the 'Aryan' human being is glorified, God's Word bears witness to the sinfulness of all men. When, within the compass of the Nationalist Socialist view of life, an anti-Semitism is forced upon the Christian that binds him to hatred of the Jew, the Christian injunction to love one's neighbor still stands for him opposed to it. We beg, however, that our people may be free to pursue their way in future under the sign of the cross of Christ, that our grandchildren may not some day curse their fathers for having built up a State on earth for them and left it behind, but shut them out of the Kingdom of God."

The most daring part of this brave memorial for the preservation of pure Christianity is the final section. Here the Fuehrer is plainly told that he has been given honors by his followers as "a national priest and even of the mediator between God and the people. We express our anxiety over the fact that he is accorded a veneration that belongs only to God." Regarding the cornerstone of the Nazi religion, the deification of the State, the pastors write: "Our nation threatens to defy the restraints which God has placed upon human ambition. It wants to make itself the measure of all things. That is human arrogance which is rebellion against God."

The Bishop of Chichester, writing in the London Times, states that a fresh attack is being launched against the Confessional Movement. Its offices have been raided by the secret police and orders have been given that all its councils must be dissolved. Commenting on these facts he says: "The Churches outside Germany have no wish to intervene in domestic debates on secondary matters. But the issue is far graver. It is because they are convinced that fundamental Christian values are at stake that their interest is so keen." Similarly, the struggle for religious liberty in any country becomes a matter of concern to all who hold that freedom of worship is one of the essentials of civilization.

"AND GOOD IN EVERYTHING"

The difficulties surrounding the work of missionaries of the Cross often require, no doubt, a fine discretion as well as a burning zeal. Experience teaches them to find tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones, and good in everything. The early missionaries often exhibited that power of discernment which, as it looks past mere externals into the heart of things, may properly be termed intellectual detachment. One of the most familiar of Bible stories gives us a picture of a crowd of inquisitive, disputatious people assembled in a public place to hear a missionary give an account of a new religion. His wandering life had taught him, among other things, to find sermons in stones, and he took for his text the words of dedication inscribed on one of the altars which had been set up in honor of "The Unknown God."

After speaking with approval of their interest in religious things, as shown by their many altars and objects of worship, he announced that he was ready to enlighten them as to the name, title, and character of the Being whose existence they affirmed, but of whose nature they confessed themselves ignorant. If he showed his address in his manner and method of approach to his subject, he exhibited equal discretion in dealing with it in the presence of an Athenian audience. No man of his day was better equipped for the exposition of matters of the most abstruse character, but Paul knew well that he had before him a concourse of people who were unprepared for skill in disputation. He knew that a learned disquisition was likely to result in debate and an exhibition of dialectical skill, amusing to the populace but leading nowhere. Accordingly, he spoke to them not as a mere disputant, but as one with authority, in direct and simple language, with no philosophical refinements, of Christ and the Resurrection.

The same keen faculty of discernment, the same tolerant breadth of vision is revealed in the opening sentences of the Fourth Gospel. The spirit of Christianity inspires the author to impart vitality and significance to a doctrine the outline of which may be clearly traced in Greek philosophy as well as in the Hebrew literature. One of the tributary rivulets that in the end unite with the main stream of Christian doctrine appears in a long and elaborate Jewish exposition of that "Wisdom" which is "the breath of the power of God and a pure influence flowing from the glory of the Almighty," which "reaches from one end to another mightily," and "doth order all things." The name of God is invoked in the character as Creator, not, however, as acting directly. He is "God of my fathers and Lord of mercy Who has made all things with Thy word and ordained man through Thy wisdom."

From the writings of Heraclitus, far back in the sixth century B.C., there issues another tributary stream, from an authentic fountain of Greek philosophy. According to Heraclitus there is a rational principle that governs the universe and develops it, an outflow of Divine energy, the Logos or Word. The same idea occupies a place in the magnificent Stoic philosophy. At the beginning of the Christian era the idea of the Logos was revived by Philo, of whom it has been said that his treatment of the doctrine was sufficiently like that of the Fourth Gospel to suggest that he was an animal naturalist Christian. The author of that Gospel begins by informing all who place a high value upon the Greek or the Jewish form of this doctrine, that the object of Christian worship, the Son of God, is all that philosophy had claimed for the Logos. The Athenian incident in the missionary labors of Paul and the absorption and development of Greek and Jewish ideas in the Fourth Gospel speak of the insight and discernment of the true missionary and the assimilative power of the Christian evangel.

SCRAPS OF PAPER

It is small wonder that the Government of Alberta should be enthusiastic over its "prosperity" scrip. It gets money that it would not get otherwise, for the scrip is a substantial form of taxation. "The scrip," says The New York Times, "circulated furiously, because everybody wants to get rid of it before the next stamp becomes due." The same newspaper says that those who suspect a catch someone need not look far, because the so-called "prosperity" certificates are simply a form of taxation, and not very equitable taxation.

There is no increased purchasing power created in Alberta. It is simply a matter of the citizens losing what the Provincial Government gains. The new tax does not necessarily fall on those best able to pay. It falls on those who are caught with the scrip when the stamp falls due. The Government must be laughing up its sleeve at the simplicity of it all, particularly if it has a Barmesque sense of humor.

True courage is the result of reasoning. A brave mind is always impregnable. Resolution lies more in the head than in the veins, and a just sense of honor and of duty, of duty and of religion, will carry us farther than all the force of mechanism. —Jerome Collier.

Devotion is like the candle which Michaelangelo used to take in his pastboard cap, so as not to throw his shadow upon the work in which he was engaged. —Phillips Brooks.

JOHNNY LONGDEN HAS FOUR FIRSTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP).—Johnny Longden, twenty-five-year-old Canadian jockey, and Johnny Gilbert, two years his junior and from Pittsburgh, Kansas, rode off with the honors on the United States turf today.

Longden, Calgary born, played his trade at Narragansett Park, brought home half the winners on the eight-race card, while Gilbert's percentage was just as good at Aqueduct, where he won three of the six events. Gilbert was the country's leading jockey four years ago, and Longden is making a strong challenge for the honors this year.

The brilliant Canadian rider started his string with C. H. Trotter's Ensign in the third race, after finishing second in the opening number. He had L. Greenock from A. G. Tarn's Winnipeg stable in front at the end of the mile and a sixteenth, took the sixth with Mrs. Ed Haughton's Casca, and the seventh with Miss L. C. White's Brass Monkey.

With the exception of L. Greenock, which returned $5.20 after winning his second straight race, all Longden's winners paid good odds. A $2 straight ticket on Ensign was worth $8.40, while Casca's was held at $8.50 for $2, and Brass Monkey at $10.40 for a win ticket.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP).—Jesse Owens, Olympic sprint and broad jump champion, today "sold" his athletic future to Marty Forkins, I. oway theatrical promoter.

With Larry Snyder, his coach at Ohio State, looking on, Jesse signed a contract to fulfill any agreements Forkins cared to sign for him.

Forkins said he would decide "within forty-eight hours" between two offers which Owens has received. One involves a flat guarantee of $5,000 a week for ten weeks to appear in vaudeville. The other would net Jesse "far more than $50,000" but would call for the negro to run at exhibitions and county fairs, "probably against Eddie Tolan."

"Eddie Tolan came to me long after the 1932 Olympics, and we tried to make some money for him, but the people had practically forgotten about him by the time he got on the stage, and he only made about $5,000," said the promoter. "We won't let that happen to Owens."

GORGE ENJOYS GREAT SEASON

New Attendance Set at Bathing House During Summer Months

Attendance records went by the boards at the Gorge Bathing House during the summer season, and it was revealed yesterday by Ralph Alcock, guard at the bathing house, that a long stretch of extremely fine weather was responsible for the daily turnouts. Close to 500 children were given swimming lessons during the holiday season, and the swimming was accomplished by Ralph Alcock with the co-operation of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club. Half the children competed in a special gala, August 25.

During the month of May, June, July and August more than 40,000 used the bathing house quarters. This is approximately 14,000 more than used the quarters last year.

During July, 1935, there was an attendance, while during the week of July 27 to August 2, over 6,500 were on hand. On August 4 the record was made when it was estimated that 2,000 took advantage of the Gorge waters to cool themselves.

PAID TRIBUTE
Mr. Alcock paid tribute to the parents for the co-operation he received in safe-guarding the children. No fatal accidents occurred at the Gorge during the season.

The guard also expressed thanks to the management of the Crystal Garden for swimming tickets given to competitors in the Gorge gala.

Life saving courses were conducted throughout the summer by Mr. Alcock, and his assistants, and the following were successful in their examinations:

Elementary—Shirley Filwood, Kathleen Davidson, William Simola, William Washington, Donavan Filwood and Robert Hunt.

Intermediate—Margaret Trevelyan, Kathleen Trevelyan and Patricia Wilson.

Bronze Medalist—Ralph Clarke, Gary Filwood, John Mellander, Eva Anderson, May McDonald, June Stanch, Doris McNeil, Marian Robinson and Robert Mull.

Bronze Bar—Emma Anderson.

INJURED JAPANESE FLOWN TO VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, Sept. 1 (AP).—Suffering from a severe injury, a Japanese man was flown from Port Alice to Vancouver and was placed in hospital here today. Don Lawson, Canadian Airways pilot, flew to Port Alice this morning and returned with the injured man within three hours. Hospital attendants said the man's condition had not been determined immediately.

BRITISH PEER TO TALK HERE

Viscount Elibank Will Be Guest of Canadian Club, Next Wednesday

RT. HON. VISCOUNT ELIBANK

RT. Hon. Viscount Elibank, president of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, and Lady Elibank are expected to arrive in Victoria on tomorrow afternoon's boat from Vancouver, where they are enjoying a vacation. They are making a trip across the Dominion.

The British peer will lead a distinguished group of businessmen from Eastern Canada and Great Britain, who will sail next Wednesday from Victoria aboard the R.M.S. Arandji for New Zealand. At Wellington they will attend the triennial congress of the Chambers of Commerce Federation, at which Lord Elibank will preside.

Lord Elibank, who has been head of the federation continuously since 1931, has accepted an invitation of the Men's Canadian Club of Victoria to address a luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel next Wednesday at 12:15 o'clock. This gathering will be held by the Canadian Club in conjunction with the Kiwanis Club and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that a large representation of business men will be present.

The distinguished visiting peer, who is particularly interested in the Overseas Dominions, is a student of modern aviation and an authority on Empire trade. He is a member of the King's Bodyguard and also of the Royal Company of Archers. Lord Elibank has achieved considerable prominence in Imperial parliamentary circles.

Remarks made by Lord Elibank in addressing the English-Speaking Union in Toronto recently on the future of military aviation drew a retort from Hon. Ian MacKenzie, Minister of National Defence, who charged that he is a "perpetrating Imperialist" for suggesting Canada's vulnerability to air attack.

Bridegroom Comes Home By Freight

SEATTLE, Sept. 1 (AP).—A large barrel was delivered to Mr. Elwood R. Falor, a bride of a week, at her work at a department store.

The clerk at the receiving station at the store was amazed, standing by in the top, a man's head protruded. "Just get a hammer and chisel and get me out of here," Falor, the bridegroom, moaned. "Oh, my neck, my back—"

It seems that Falor and his bride successfully evaded the demands for their marriage and no tricks were played on them. Falor, a truck driver, went back to work yesterday, however, and drove to Tacoma and ran into some "friends" there.

AIRPLANE TWO DAYS OVERDUE

Pilot and Five Passengers Are Missing on Fishing Trip

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 1 (AP).—Two days overdue from a flight to the Russian River on the Kenai Peninsula, an airplane—pilot and five passengers—were sought unsuccessfully today by Kenneth Neese, manager of the Star Air Service.

Pilot Steve Mills and the passengers, Mr. and Mrs. George Markie, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence David and Augustus Teik, all of Anchorage, left here Sunday to fish the Russian River and to return that night.

The Russian River is about an hour's flight from Anchorage. Neese, after flying over the Kenai Peninsula today, returned tonight with no trace of the plane or its occupants. He refused to comment further.

MEXICO SHIPS ARMS TO SPAIN

President of Congress Defends Support Lent to "Friendly Government"

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 1 (AP).—The President of the Mexican Congress tonight defended the recent shipment of arms to Spain from Mexico to the Madrid Government.

The shipment of 20,000 rifles and 20,000,000 rounds of ammunition was announced by President Lázaro Cardenas in his speech opening the session today.

Deputy Luis Enrique Erro, President of the Congress, defended the shipment, saying:

"To sell materials of war and lend moral—or even material—aid to a friendly Government—legitimately constituted—is perfectly consistent with international ethical stand."

To do otherwise would be equivalent to conceding implicit allegiance to a military insurrection that in every way is contrary to the sentiments of the Mexican people."

Company may open up the Alibeny mill again.

The mill, located about twelve miles west of Princeton, is of 2,500 tons capacity and handled low-grade copper ore from the huge deposits on Copper Mountain, nine miles distant.

The property was acquired from the Canada Copper Corporation, Ltd., in 1925 and operated by Granby for four years. The mill, originally of 2,000 tons capacity, was opened up to handle from 2,500 to 3,500 tons daily.

When taken over by the Granby Company it was estimated 5,525,980 tons of ore were blocked out, running 1.83 per cent copper with values in gold and silver with prospects of still greater tonnage. It was the largest and most important mine in the Nicola-Princeton district when in operation, and employed about 375 men.

Available travel statistics for the first part of the current season presented to the body disclosed substantial increases this year over last. The number of visitors to Vancouver Island, coming in foreign cars, increased 60 per cent; all travel to the city of Vancouver was better by 40 per cent; travel into the State of Oregon increased 45 per cent, and the same time farther from being balanced operations than it well could anticipate. Sympathetic consideration at Ottawa is being heavily coupled into to improve winter conditions in an otherwise sombre picture.

Industrially, British Columbia has forged ahead steadily in the last few years, with the four major industries recovering some 80 per cent of the ground lost at the pit of the depression. The gains made have been mainly attributable to private endeavor.

These are some elements in the conditions that will face British Columbia legislators this fall.

The company went into liquidation last January and since that time only a skeleton force has remained for routine duties in the office here.

At the time of liquidation the company closed down the properties at Ansox and disposed of its machinery there to the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. Ltd. of Trail, which shipped it to Trail and Kimberley.

PREPARE WAY FOR CREDIT PAYMENTS

ties' Securities Interest Act and the amendment to the Debt Adjustment Act of 1933. All were far-reaching.

MANY ENACTMENTS
The Legislature passed a flood of legislation sponsored by Hon. E. C. Manning, Minister of Trade and Industry, and intended to consolidate laws supervised by the department and advance attempts to improve working conditions.

A feat of the session was the members' decision to take no indemnity for their work and expenses. However, a prepayment of $200 on their $1,800 indemnity for the next session was provided for, and the Government was empowered to make an extra advance of $450, when requested by a member, on the next session's indemnity.

The three main principles of social credit—basic dividends, just prices and unearned increment—figured in bills approved by the Legislature.

DIVIDEND PAYMENTS
The Alberta Credit House Act provided for payment of basic dividends. In the form of Alberta credit deposited in the credit house, and also for a levy of the unearned increment of Alberta credit as the credit passes through the credit house.

A step toward the just price principle was taken in the amendment to the Trade and Industry Act, which contained provision for formation of a price-spreading board of not more than five members which would have power to fix prices and make investigations of price spreads.

Most radical of the debt-adjusting legislation was the Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act, which divided private debts into two classes and provided for reduction of both.

DEBTS REDUCED
Under the act, such debts contracted prior to July 1, 1932, will be reduced by the amount of payments made since that time, whether such payments were made on principal or interest. The balance then remaining will be paid in ten annual installments without interest.

The first three installments will be 5 per cent of the principal, the next four 10 per cent, and the last three 15 per cent.

For debts contracted since July 1, 1932, the maximum interest collectible is 5 per cent and any interest payments in excess of 5 per cent made since that date will be deducted from the principal.

The Debt Adjustment Act of 1933 was amended to extend provisions of the act four years to July 1, 1938. Appeals from decisions of the debt adjustment board were made impossible in another amendment.

CLUB MUNICIPALITIES
To authorize municipalities would not pay more than 2 per cent of their securities the Municipalities Securities Interest Act was passed prohibiting the municipalities from collecting taxes to pay upon such that amount of interest on the securities.

Action taken last May by the Government to reduce interest on debenture bonds or guaranteed by the Province was validated in the Provincial Securities Interest Act. The measure ratified the order-in-council reducing by half interest rates on Alberta debt of approximately $100,000,000.

Other validating legislation was the Prosperity Certificate Act which authorized the issue of certificates and authorized the city of Edmonton to enter into an agreement to accept the certificates, notwithstanding provisions of any other act.

At present an interim injunction restrains Edmonton from accepting or undertaking to accept the certificates.

CROWN PROTECTED
During the course of the session, an act introduced by G. H. Van Allen, K.C. (Liberal, Edmonton), providing that the Crown may sue and be sued, was thrown out and another act, blocking any legal action against the Alberta Government or any member of the Government, was passed.

The Hours of Labor Act, approved by the Legislature, set maximum working hours of fifty-four hours for males and forty-eight hours for females.

The Licensing of Trades and Businesses Act was amended to provide that penalties such as cancellation of licenses might be imposed on firms convicted of violating the Hours of Labor Act.

Bride and Groom Leave For Trip to California

Miss Anne Patricia McKinnon Bride of Mr. Elliott Player, Victoria, at Pretty Wedding in Trail—Sailed Last Night for South

The marriage took place at Knox United Church, Trail, on Saturday afternoon, August 29, of Anne Patricia, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. McKinnon, Trail, to Mr. Elliott George Nicholson Player, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Player, Richmond Road, Victoria. Rev. C. H. Daly, of Rossland, officiated.

Miss Jean McKinnon, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, and Mr. T. A. Rice was best man. Miss Cynthia Dockeseder presided at the organ and the ushers were Mr. J. H. Curtis and Mr. A. G. McKinnon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked beautiful in a gown of white tulle-lace, made with a high neckline and long sleeves. Her skirt terminated in a train and her bridal veil was worn halo style, held in place with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a showed bouquet of pale pink roses and sweet peas.

PRETTY BRIDESMAID
The bridesmaid wore a charming gown of coral chiffon, over which a three-quarter-length cape was worn. The bodice of the frock was shirred and the neckline finished with hand-made chiffon flowers. She made a pale blue picture hat with coral trimming, pale blue sandals and gloves, and carried a

Weddings

GLEAVE-PARKINS

The wedding took place in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Rev. Alan Gardner officiated at the marriage of Nellie Rose, only daughter of Mrs. Parkins, 310 Jeffre Street, and of the late Mr. W. R. Parkins, and Mr. Peter A. R. Gleave, third son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gleave, 3969 Heather Street, Vancouver.

The bride, who was given away by her mother, wore a navy blue costume trimmed with white, and white accessories, completed with a corsage spray of rosebuds, white heather and sweet peas. The bridegroom and the best man, Mr. Bert Day, who are both chief petty officers in the Royal Canadian Navy, were in uniform.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gleave left for Seattle, the bride donning a Hudson seal fur coat, the gift of the groom. After a week's motor trip they will visit the groom's parents in Vancouver before returning to Esquimalt to reside. Among the wedding gifts were a case of flat table silver from the public works department, Parliament Buildings, of which the bride had been a member of the staff, and a traveling clock from the chief petty officers at the R.C.N. Barracks, Esquimalt.

PALFREY-RICHARDS

Rev. Canon Chadwick officiated at the marriage of Barbara Gladys, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Richards, Burdett Avenue, and Mr. Farie Davidson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Palfrey, Menzies Street, which took place yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a smart white tailored suit and a white hat, and a shoulder spray of Ophelia roses and maidenhair fern, and carried

British Craftsmen Excel in Making Jewelry

All women are born to wear jewelry. With it beauty may be enhanced, but the success or failure in the wearing depends upon the individual choice.

Many women know by instinct what suits them. They know exactly how much they can wear without appearing over-dressed, and just when to wear it. Others, perhaps the vast majority, have little idea at all of the way in which they could increase their personal charm with well selected jewels. Their latent artistic sense—which everyone possesses in some degree—has never been fully developed. In skilled hands they can all become a credit to the jeweler's art.

EACH FOR EACH
No two of us are alike and when convention decrees that adornment should be worn, this distinct and separate individuality must be borne in mind. Hence we have the bespoke jewelry consumer and jeweler.

Leading British jewelers have clearly realized that their advancement lies in greater efficiency in all departments, but most particularly in the furtherance of beautiful design and craftsmanship.

Jewelers have seen the success with which the advanced designer speaks in other industries and they have grown to realize that co-operation with him is essential if they are to progress. Without the designer it is impossible to produce beautiful jewelry, or to display them to the best advantage, but it must be remembered that the expert in display is a designer working in another medium.

By thoughtful planning for the individual's needs, better results will be obtained than by buying and selling haphazardly from day to day and season to season.

The annual pound party of the British Columbia Protestant Orphan's Home will be held on October 2. It was decided at a meeting of the ladies' committee, held yesterday afternoon. The following members are present: Mesdames Sherwood, Butler, Elliott, Humphries, O. M. Brown, Grimson, Dinmore, Hughes, Dillabough, Simpson, Shepherd and Miss Newbury. The president, Mrs. F. V. Lonsdale, was in the chair.

Of the forty-one children in the home, thirty-three have gone back to school. Mrs. Heddie and Mrs. Hughes will visit the home during September.

The following donations were gratefully received: Friend (Vancouver)—cash; Sunny Helpers, cash; Henry's Grocery, soap, crisco and corn; Mrs. Guyton, beans, tomatoes, carrots and peas; Mrs. E. Humphries, green beans; A. Lee, salmon; Friend, vegetables; Victoria-Saanich Anglers' Association, salmon; Canadian Junior Red Cross, toys and books; Friend, green beans; Dr. F. M. Bryant, fish; Friend, clothing; Friend, vegetables; St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Guild, armoire; Mrs. G. N. Peel, double swing; Mrs. M. Paton, fancy biscuits; Fernwood Meat Market, apples; A. Urry, apples; Friend, apples; Miss Agnes, sugar, pears and plums; Mrs. Steviest, plums; Rev. E. MacQueen, blackberries; Mrs. Purvis Smith, apples; Prof. E. M. ## Nurses Hear Reports of Convention

Members of the Victoria Graduate Nurses' Association held their regular meeting at St. Joseph's Hospital last night.

The principal business was the presentation of the interesting reports by Miss E. J. Herbert and Miss Dixon of the proceedings of the Canadian Nurses' Association convention, held during the past summer in Vancouver.

Miss E. Toyne, president, and about thirty members were present.

Civics Societies

King's Daughters
The district meeting of the King's Daughters was held in the rest room on Monday afternoon. It was reported the rest room had been attended by 4331 persons during June, July and August. It was announced that Lady Tweedsmuir had been presented with a basket of flowers from the Victoria district and had been welcomed as the honorary president of the order in Canada.

Tentative plans for the Winter program were made. A report of the garden party at Miss Agnew's residence was given, and the secretary was instructed to write to the hostess, thanking her for all the kindnesses received, both personally and from her efficient staff. Also a letter was authorized to be sent to Miss Jean Roberts, who was responsible for the very fine posters.

Pythian Sisters
Island Temple No. 8, Pythian Sisters, met in the K. of P. Hall, Broad Street, with Vera, their president, presiding. The regular business was discussed. The temple was visited by Mrs. Crossman and her daughter, Medicine Hat, who gave an interesting talk. After the meeting a card game was held. The winners were: Mrs. White, consolation, ladies; Mrs. Penner, and men; Mr. Cosman. Refreshments were served by a capable committee.

Christ Church Cathedral W.A.
An executive meeting of the women's afternoon branch W.A. will be held on Tuesday, September 8, at 2:30 p.m. in the Memorial Hall to discuss plans for the opening of the W.A. meetings. An open meeting of the senior W.A. will be held on Monday, September 14, when a special address will be given by Rev. E. C. Rowthorn. Visitors and anyone interested are cordially invited to attend.

First United W.A.
The Women's Association of the First United Church met on Monday afternoon in the managers' room. Mrs. J. Conibear.

Witt-Kitty
BY NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

The possibilities of the jewelry trade are unlimited. There exists a vast wealth of gems unheard of by the general public and designers are seeking to use them in an endless progress of fascinating schemes. Jewels must co-operate with the designer and manufacturer.

There is no finer medium for the expression of such problems than the British Industries Fair, and members of the Birmingham Jewellers and Silversmiths Association will welcome all buyers interested in the development of their art at the next Fair at Olympia in February, 1937.

By thoughtful planning for the individual's needs, better results will be obtained than by buying and selling haphazardly from day to day and season to season.

You don't have to go to the theatre to see tragedy—just watch the face of a woman whose husband has announced that "she must have to cut down on her dress budget."

"Madam," said the aristocratic butler, "there is a magnificent fur coat in the wardrobe."

"Well," replied the woman, "I must have it. I have nothing to wear."

KILLED BY POLITICS

Judge Hartick said the organization in Oakland County quickly became "entangled in the labyrinth of politics."
Politics spelled "its death just as certainly as the murder of Charles A. Poole, May 12, 1936, sounded the death knell of the Black Legion in Wayne County (Detroit)," the report said.

Selection of jurors to try ten of the twelve men charged with Poole's death went forward today in the court of Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moylan here, after all the prospective jurors had sworn that they were not members or former members of the Black Legion.

Engagement Announced

Victorian friends will be interested in the announcement of the engagement of Amy Corange, only daughter of Major-General E. C. Ashton, C.B., C.M.G., and Mrs. Ashton, to Mr. Stephen Bentley Lloyd, second son of Colonel W. E. Lloyd, Cheshire, England, and the late Mrs. Lloyd. Mr. Lloyd, who has been spending several months in England, is at present in Victoria for a short time before returning to England, where he will make his future home. The date of the wedding has not yet been set.

Leaves for East

Dr. William Russell, New York, who has been here for the past month visiting his sisters and brother, 27 Bond Street, and with his son, Dr. Ernest Russell, and family, who have been staying at the Small Charming Hotel, left on Monday for his home in the East. En route he stopped a day in Vancouver to confer with some of the executives of the mental hospital at Rosedale, and will also make a stopover at Toronto to visit friends there.

Returning to Seattle

Mrs. Robert Gillespie, Seattle, who has been spending the past three months here at the Oak Bay Apartments, will leave this afternoon for home. Mrs. Gillespie will be accompanied home by her daughter, Miss Kathleen Gillespie, who has been spending a few days here, and her sons, Messrs. William and Bruce Gillespie, who have also been here for the summer.

Visitor Leaves

Miss Muriel Pease, Rotorua, New Zealand, who spent a few days here at the Oak Bay Small Charming Hotel, has left for Lake Louise to spend several days prior to going to California. After visiting various places of interest there, Miss Pease will sail for home.

To Live Here

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Sim and their small son, Donald, have come from Vancouver to make their home here at 933 Island Road.

Mr. John Sim, who has been spending the greater part of the summer in Victoria, left last night to visit in Vancouver for a few days.

From Chicago

Mrs. Gordon Wright has arrived from Chicago to visit her mother, Madame Desrochers, Oliver Street, Oak Bay.

Visiting Aunt

Mrs. Ruth Walcott, Maple Bay, is spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Arthur Nixon, Arnold Street.

Will Visit Here

Mrs. T. P. Patton, Mexico City, arrived recently in Vancouver, having motored north from Vera Cruz, and is visiting her mother, Mrs. C. N. Gowen, and her sister, Mrs. M. C. Wais. Mrs. Patton is a Victorian, who has made her home for some time in Mexico, and she plans to visit friends here before returning South.

Returns to Vancouver

SEEKS INJUNCTION RESTRAINING CITY

tion the public should have been acquainted with it sooner.

On a five-vote, a motion to pay Mr. Henley $15,000 was passed by the council. Out of the sum he was to have paid traveling expenses of Mayor David Leeming, Alderman Brown and Mr. Macdonald to Toronto, New York, London, Liverpool and Edinburgh, in addition to agents' fees, clerical help, meals, hotel accommodation and other incidentals.

PROMISED $15,000

Meetings were to have been arranged with bondholders, at which the council would have received interest rates on bonds would be sought. If 17, Henley was instrumental in securing consent of 51 per cent of the bondholders, and the Provincial Government had proved of the conversion scheme, he was to have received an additional $15,000. The council also passed a vote of $1,000 to meet incidental expenses of the party.

Six members of the council felt they were on safe ground in adopting Mr. Henley's scheme. The Mayor pointed out would bring the city back to a state of solvency and possibly lead to a tax rate of 35 mills within five years. Section 164 of the Municipal Act states: "The council may, by resolution, pay the expenses of delegates when on municipal business, whether the delegates are members of the council or otherwise."

Mr. Higgins explained that while under statutes the City Council may vote money to pay expenses of members who may be authorized to engage upon business for the city, the point involved in the Henley contract did not come under that heading.

A SPECULATION

In this particular instance, there is no business for the city which is assured. This, according to terms of the agreement, Mr. Higgins stated, is a venture or a speculation in which Mr. Henley enters, and from the money paid Mr. Henley in connection with the carrying out of the plan, expenses of the Mayor, Alderman Brown and Mr. Macdonald are to be paid by Mr. Henley. This money is being paid to another person not on the council, and, therefore, members of the council named become interested parties which makes it contrary to the Municipal Act, Mr. Higgins contended.

Mr. Higgins claimed expenses of delegates were not being paid, which was within the meaning of the act. On the contrary, by resolution, the council was giving $15,000 to Mr. Henley and the latter was to decide what expenses would be.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Jimmy Skunk Calls on Prickly Porky

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When Old Mr. Toad suggested that Jimmy Skunk go call on Prickly Porky, the porcupine and ask him if he had seen the terrible creature without legs or head or tail whom Peter Rabbit had seen rolling down the hill where Prickly Porky makes his home, Jimmy couldn't see any way of getting out of it. You see, Old Mr. Toad had been crafty enough to pay Jimmy a very fine tribute. He had said that as Jimmy was not afraid of Prickly Porky or anything, he was just the one to go. Now, after that, what could Jimmy do but go? If he didn't go it would look very much as if he were afraid.

"A plague upon Old Mr. Toad!" grumbled Jimmy, as he ambled up the Lone Little Path through the Green Forest on his way to the hill where Prickly Porky lives. "Of course I'm not afraid, but, just the same, I don't like meddling with things I don't know anything about. I'm not afraid of anybody. I know of, because everybody has the greatest respect for me, but it might be different with a creature who has legs or head or tail. Whoever heard of such a thing? It gives me a queer feeling inside."

However, he kept right on, and as he reached the foot of the hill where Prickly Porky lives he looked sharply in every direction and listened with all his might for strange sounds. But there was nothing unusual to be seen. The Green Forest looked just as it always did. It was very still and quiet there save for the chattering of Redbreast the Vireo telling over and over how happy he was.

"That doesn't sound as if there was any terrible stranger around here," muttered Jimmy.

Then he heard a queer, grunting sound, a very queer sound, that seemed to come from somewhere off the top of the hill. Jimmy grinned as he listened. "That's Prickly Porky himself telling how good his dinner tastes," laughed Jimmy. "Jimmy, how some people do like to hear their own voices."

The contented sound of Prickly Porky's voice made Jimmy feel very sure that there could be nothing very terrible about them, anyway, and so he slowly ambled up the hill for you know he never hurries. It was an easy matter to find the tree in which Prickly Porky was at work stripping off bark and eating it because he made so much noise about it.

"Hello!" said Jimmy skunk.

Prickly Porky took no notice. He was so busy eating and making so much noise about it that he didn't hear Jimmy at all.

ings in the city, I feel that the future financial welfare of the city is dependent upon adoption of this proposal.

PRaises PLAN

"I am pleased to support you, Mr. Mayor, and members of your financial committee and council who gave their support to this constructive plan at your council meeting.

"It is conspicuous to me that unless something along these lines is adopted, the bondholders, the taxpayers and the mortgage interests of this city will suffer unduly. Thirty-one thousand dollars is a very trifling amount if successful in refinancing nearly $13,000,000 worth of bonds. Please accept my thanks for your loyal services to the city."

(Signed) "REGINALD GLEN".

Following a meeting of several members of Victoria Bond Dealers yesterday afternoon, the following statement was given out by J. W. Jones, the president.

"This meeting of bond dealers has having received the details of the schedule on which the refunding proposal is based, and therefore being unable to judge whether the scheme is actually sound, is not in a position to recommend adoption of the scheme, but the meeting recommends that the City Council lay the plan before Canadian Investment Dealers' Association, of Toronto, for its consideration, by this means accepting the offer of co-operation which has been made by Canadian Investment Dealers."

THE COUNTRY PLUNDERERS

A city family had been motoring in the country all one Sunday. They had filled all available space in the car with wild flowers, tree branches and other spoils.

Being uncertain which road to take, they stopped a farmer and inquired "Could we take this road back to the city?"

"You might as well while you're at it," replied the farmer, "it looks as if you had about everything else we've got."

HERE TO STUDY GRAIN SYSTEMS

J. Lyons, of Australia, Crossing Canada to Survey Bulk Handling

To make a personal survey and study of bulk handling of grain, particularly wheat, J. Lyons, member for the district of Stanley in the Australian House of Assembly, arrived here over the last week-end from San Francisco, will continue across Canada to Montreal and New York and then to England, returning via the Suez Canal.

The handling of grain by the sack, as is done in Australia, Mr. Lyons believes, is a costly and slow method compared to the system in Canada where giant elevators take in grain from railway cars, store it in huge bins and pipe it out to steamers for shipment down the lakes or overseas. Mr. Lyons is confident the elevator system would operate as efficiently in Australia as in Canada.

BUSINESS BETTER

Concerning business conditions, Mr. Lyons said that while the depression was not yet over, there was an appreciable increase in business. Higher prices for wheat and wool contributed to a large extent to the apparent recovery.

The rabbit pest, the visitor remarked, was doing much damage to pasture lands in Australia. They eat the grass and leave the soil in danger of wind drifting.

EAST WINNER

Pritchard was an easy winner over a field of sixty-seven starters, climbing up on a finish barge unaided a full half mile ahead of Warren Priddy, of St. Catharines, Ont., who took second prize money of $750, compared to the $2,500 purse won by Pritchard. Connie Gareau, of Sudbury, Ont. finished third to win $350.

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP).—The engagement of Joyce Wethered, ranked the greatest woman golfer in Great Britain, if not in the world, to Captain Sir John Heathcoat-Amory will be announced Tuesday.

Miss Wethered is thirty-four, a five times winner of the British women's championship, she retired from amateur competition in 1933 to become a "business woman" golfer.

Sir John, forty-two, served in the Great War, and is now chairman of John Heathcoat & Company.

Those who participated in the contest just concluded found it rather strenuous and exacting, and the finalists are to be congratulated on their accomplishment, when it is considered that in reaching this stage there had to be overcoming combinations skipped by such respectable bowlers as Fred Harman.

Lancashire was dubbed the failure of the year, finishing in eleventh position. Last season the club ended in fourth place, but early reversal of its championship hopes spoiled the season, and a recent change of fortune was not enough to materially affect its position.

SEEKING NEW LEGISLATION

Eight City Council Members To Attend Municipal Parley in Vernon

Victoria will be well represented at the Union of British Columbia Municipalities parley to be held at Vernon from September 22 to 24. Mayor David Leeming, Aldermen Andrew McGavin, James Adam, R. A. C. Dewar, Archie Wills, Edward Williams, Walter Lupton and Percy R. Brown intend to be present. The resolutions committee will meet on September 20, and Good Roads League on September 21, before convention business proper.

Important resolutions to be presented by Victoria delegates include a request that the Provincial Government enact legislation providing that every police magistrate or acting police magistrate shall be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council from one or more candidates nominated by a municipal council, that his appointment be cancelled at the request of a municipal council, and that his salary shall be determined by a council and varied by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council only pursuant to recommendations of a municipal council.

PROTECT FLOWERS

Members of the City Council seek legislation empowering municipal flowers to prohibit the picking of wild flowers in public parks within the jurisdiction of a municipality, and to provide for penalties.

They also urge a change in the Motor Vehicles Act to give a driver twelve hours in which to produce his license after being asked for it by a police officer.

Legislation will also be sought to provide that notwithstanding provisions of the Municipal Act, it shall be lawful, retroactive to January 1, 1933, for a council or treasurer of any municipality to consolidate into one fund, to be known as a consolidated sinking fund, all sinking funds and sinking fund securities held or acquired by a municipality.

RAINFALL HALTS LONG DRY SPELL

Slightly More Than an Inch of Rain in Twenty-Four Hours Recorded Here

Slightly more than an inch of rain fell in Victoria and district during the twenty-four-hour period that ended at noon yesterday, according to officials of the Meteorological Observatory here.

The heaviest of the series of downpours occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and was accompanied by lightning and thunder. At 7 o'clock the skies cleared and there was no rain until 11 o'clock. Shortly after 1 o'clock there was another short downpour but the skies again cleared towards late afternoon.

FOG DRIFTS IN

Towards midnight Monday, heavy fog banks drifted in and fog horns silent for several weeks, sent out their warnings to vessels. It was reported several telephones were out of order in the Gonzales district and that lightning interfered slightly with short distance radio. The rainfall was general over the southern end of Vancouver Island and on the Mainland. On the West Coast, the rainfall was reported heavy with dense fog.

Housewives of passionate attachment to the vacuum cleaner and duster seem to be subject to fits of exasperation that others know nothing of. A confirmed dust-fighter of immense energy and vigorous mind was moved to exceeding wrath by the following paragraph:

It is thought that some of the early English stained-glass now being cleaned and resealed in Merton College, Oxford, has not been touched for 630 years.

"Does that 'not' ding a?" she demanded. "Six hundred and thirty years, an' no' a wumman body w'd the gumption the pit brush an' water tae smoot'it winder! Whina stour! Dae that English fowk ken naethin' aboot 'Sping cleanin'!"

WHAT YOU EAT HAS A LOT TO DO WITH HOW YOU FEEL

Correction of Constipation* Is Often a Matter of Menu

For years, the medical profession has insisted that proper diet is more effective than any medicine in the indiscriminate use of patent medicines. Today, they are seeing their teachings bear fruit.

For instance, millions of families have learned that common constipation is largely due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. Many of them correct this condition by the regular use of Kellogg's All-Bran.

This delicious cereal supplies generous "bulk" in effective form. Within the body, it "bulk" absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently this clears out the intestinal wastes.

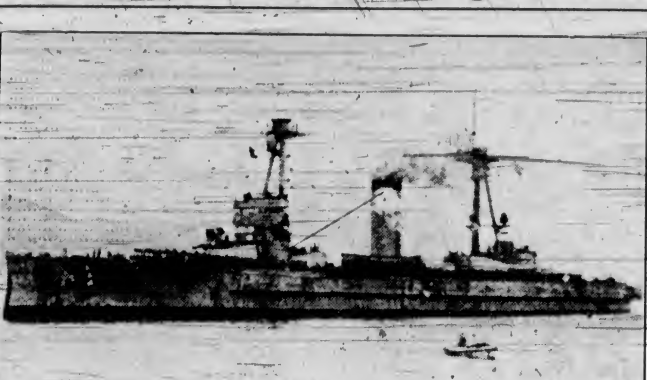

Kellogg's All-Bran also supplies vitamin B and contains iron. It may be served as a cereal with milk or cream, or cooked into tempting muffins, breads, etc.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require All-Bran oftenener. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

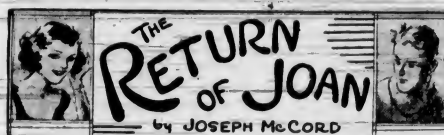

Kellogg's All-Bran is not a "cure-all"—but it does correct common constipation. It is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

CHAPTER XVIII

Deeds and Joan walked back to the Casino in silence.

As they were about to pass the entrance, Claire's voice hailed them and that young woman appeared with Gene strolling at her side.

"I wondered where you two had gotten to," Claire greeted them. "The others started on some time ago. I've been playing a machine with Gene's nickels and just exhausted the supply. We'll look along with you. If you're headed back to the house."

Deeds felt there was relief in tones. It was just as well that it would look like if the four of them had been loitering together. They walked along chatting idly until the cottage was reached.

"How would you folks like to take a ride down the road?" Gene suggested as they neared the porch. "If two of you don't mind squeezing in behind."

"Thank you, I must go in," Joan said quietly. "The rest of you go."

"Not I," Claire announced. "I overstepped all fasting bounds tonight. There are some strings that need to be loosened," she added frankly. "Take Deeds with you. He hasn't seen much of the country around here. There'll be a moon later."

"Like to?" Gene turned to Deeds. "Come along then, we'll see if the bus is in running order."

A few moments later they were rolling along the highway in a southerly direction.

"We might drop down as far as Harbor's Gate," Gene observed. "If you've never been there. Not much to see. . . nice beach and one of the best pavilions around here. Fair orchestra as a rule."

"Fine."

Deeds was glad that his companion was not inclined to talk during the ten-mile drive. He was busy with his own thoughts of the past few hours. And Joan.

He wished she were by his side now. Just the two of them. . . he at the wheel, stealing an occasional glance at her. He could almost see Joan leaning back against the cushions, the wind in her hair. And here was the moon, lifting up its glittering path across the restless water. Something in the beauty of the picture brought a pang of loneliness. He always would want to share beautiful things with Joan.

The usual raucous cries of barkers, hot dogs. A red-coated jazz orchestra in the pavilion, lights and steamers. Huge polished floor with couples shuffling about, half running, walking slowly, weaving.

"What do you say we get out of this mess?" Gene queried abruptly. "Unless you'd like to try to pick up somebody for a dance. Sometimes you can."

"Not for me. I'd rather beat it, if you don't mind."

"Then let's go down on the sand and have a smoke."

"Quite a lot," he said. "It's more than suited Deeds to be apart from the crowd. The music, the babel of voices reduced to a murmur. And Gaston didn't seem inclined to talk. Instead, he sat with his arms hugging his knees, looking out on the water, pulling meditatively on his pipe. Deeds was startled to hear him say, after a long silence.

"Does the water. . . all this do things to you, McCune?"

"What sort of things?"

"Oh, I don't know. . . not depressing exactly. I guess it's the business of it. . . if you know what I mean. As far as time counts, that same beach has always been there, like it is now. Restless but solid. It makes you wonder sometimes what it thinks of the human bugs that scuttle around on the shore as if nothing mattered but chips, the sea isn't bothered. When you look at it that way, the ocean's rather restful. It's one thing that doesn't change."

"Yes," Deeds admitted slowly. "I think I know what you mean. It makes a fellow see how insignificant he is, after all."

He regarded Gaston curiously. The moon was shining full on his companion's face, illuminating his features in sharp detail. It might have been the shadows, but Gene's face suddenly looked sunken. His eyes appeared sombre, dreamy. He seemed to have shed his usual air of indolent self-possession. There had been a touch of something approaching wistfulness in his last words.

When he spoke again, it was hesitatingly.

"It's queer. . . I guess it is insignificant. Makes you wonder how much is worth while, if anything. It's all over so damnably quick. Maybe a fellow is entitled to the easy out. . . if he can get them. Ever think of it?"

"Sure," Deeds was growing more and more puzzled; Gaston was about the last one he would expect to turn philosopher. Must be he was a sort of fatalist, or something. "You're right," he conceded. "If you want to look at it that way. But most of the upliftings try to make us think it's an adventure. Peep stuff."

"I make the water better, and all that sort of thing. I suppose that's a good deal, seeing we're here and have to make the best of it. It's as good an existence as I've tickled to date," he finished whimsically.

"I know," Gene mused. "I guess it depends on the start you get. I think you were born to be busy."

"You'd do something. You'd do something that nobody else has thought of and get a big kick out of it. Maybe you'd have to hustle on your own. I've had it all handed to me."

"Mostly. And now I expect I look for the easiest way to live and good intentions to save hell a mile, but they never get me anywhere."

"Deeds forced himself to laugh. "Say, Gaston, you talk like some old guy at the end of his rope. . . worrying over a mispent life. You've got most of it ahead of you yet, from the way you look. You've hit a low spot. Must be. . . the moon."

"Maybe."

"That's all. . . been working fairly hard, for me. Sort of trying to get things cleaned up for a long rest. . . think I've earned it, maybe."

"Sure you have. Going to stay around here and loaf, or try a change of scene?"

"Change, I fancy. There are some things here that remind me how useless I am to anybody. Funny thing to say, but I've never done anything that I know of to make another person happy. . . really happy."

"Snap out of it, then. There's your mother and your. . . sister. You're lucky there. Probably others, if you'd take time to think."

Deeds found himself thinking suddenly of Joan. Gaston once had fancied himself in love with her, according to Claire's story. He felt an uncomfortable suspicion that she might be in Gene's mind now. Perhaps Joan had refused him, too. Perhaps meeting her here unexpectedly, after several years, had brought it all back. Joan didn't love him. . . she was one sure thing. They seemed to be good friends and nothing more. Deeds had banished that first discomfort about the trip the two had made to Waples. Nothing to it, but. . .

For some reason, this unexpected mood of Gaston's had roused his restlessness and apprehension. The situation was more muddled than ever, following Joan's refusal to leave home. He hadn't expected that she could or would accede to his wish, but it disposed of his one solution. Right back where he started now.

He was relieved when Gene suddenly rapped the dead ash from his pipe bowl and looked at him. "He displayed his usual smile."

"Sorry, McCune," he apologized. "You must think me rather an ass. . . I don't know what hit me. Forget it."

"That's all right. I know what it is to get in the dumps."

"Far going to chance one more explanation," Gene said slowly. "I haven't seen so much of you since you came, but I like you a lot. I guess there's no harm in saying it, after all. I've been hearing a lot about you. . . from one of your admirers."

"Who?" Deeds demanded unthinkingly.

"Claire. You seem to have made quite a hit with her. Funny kid. . . she likes people a lot and not at all decent usually make kind bones about letting them know either. Rather painfully, candid."

"She's mighty attractive," Deeds admitted. "And I guess she's suddenly thinking that it was true."

"I think so. She doesn't often let anyone see the best side of her nature, but it's there. I think we have some of the same slants. I don't often reveal my inner workings" to such friends as I have. . . fortunately for them. Good of you not to appear bored. Do you mind my saying that I wish we might become better acquainted?"

"I don't see why we shouldn't," Deeds said easily. "We'll try to figure up some stunts. I'd like to take a whirl at some surf fishing and haven't the foggiest notion about the technique. Maybe you can show me."

"Fine." Gene did not sound particularly enthusiastic. "Shall we be starting back?"

Slowly they mounted the steps leading to the pavilion and wandered past the dance floor, watching the moving couples on its shining surface.

"Excuse me just a second, old man, will you?" Gaston said unexpectedly. "I'll find your car."

Deeds nodded absently and should have given no further thought to the matter had he not chanced to see a man move from behind a group of chattering young people and join Gaston. He saw him greeting exchanged, but the two men certainly were walking away together. And in a hurried manner.

He suggested a desire to escape from sight. Deeds caught only a glimpse of the stranger—a thin, white face and heavy brows. Just enough to leave an unpleasant recollection.

Gaston must have seen the fellow at a distance. Why didn't he want to be seen with him? He certainly gave that impression. Deeds lingered where he was, thinking it over. Everything that happened around this place seemed to be tagged with mystery. It might be nothing more than a fancy, but it was beginning to get on his nerves. He had been more than ready to revise his earlier decision about Gaston. The chap had shown him an unexpected side tonight, human and rather likable. He'd felt sorry for him and more than willing to go and pull this stunt. Nothing to it, probably. . . but queer.

When Gaston appeared again, after ten minutes, he was perfectly casual in his manner. He merely remarked that they would hunt up the car. If Deeds were ready. And, after they had started in the direction of Layland Cottage, his contributions were commonplace enough.

They found Deeds unresponsive. He had almost nothing to say until the car was in the garage. As they were about to start along the narrow walk that skirted the side of the house, he spoke abruptly.

"Going to be sticking around for a time, Gaston? I understood you to say something, didn't I, about cleaning up some work?"

Gene, giving himself a final assurance that the garage door was locked, turned at the sudden question.

"Yes, I said so. Why?"

"Just wondering when you would have some free time was all."

"Oh, yes. I will be busy for a little time yet."

"Didn't mean to be personal. I'm not sure just how long I'll be around here myself."

"I hope you'll stay on a bit. I'll be cleaned up for sure in a week or ten days, maybe."

PASADENA WRITER SPEAKS TO CLUB

Kiwans Hear Address on Child Psychology at Empress Hotel by Dr. Clara Burdette

"We often hear of the neglected children. Where are they? Often in our home homes. Sometimes it is asked: 'What is the matter with the present generation?' The answer is, 'their grandparents,'" declared Dr. Clara D. Burdette, Pasadena, widely-known psychologist, educationist, writer, and club executive, in an address to the Kiwanis Club in the Empress Hotel yesterday on "Boys, Old and Young."

Dr. Burdette looked the span of life into seven divisions of ten years each, but she considered only the first three periods. These she discussed on the basis of the home, health, education, citizenship, vocation and avocation, leisure and spiritual character.

The home was vitally important during the first thirty years because it was the basis of life itself. Here a boy could receive happy or unhappy impressions, which would bear markedly on his future life. Memories of a happy home were to be treasured in these troublesome times or broken homes, she said.

MUST TRAIN BOYS

During early life Dr. Burdette urged upon parents the necessity of training the boy to overcome self-indulgences. She stressed the importance of preventive measures in health, education, leisure and spiritual character.

Citizenship was an all-important point in a boy's life. During the first ten years the basis of good citizenship—understanding, tolerance, helpfulness and obedience to law and God—could be instilled in the youngster's mind, she said. Vocation and avocation could be determined by an understanding between the parent and the child.

Dr. Burdette declared that directed-leisure was a driving force in character building, while throughout the whole period and in each section the question of spiritual character was to be considered deeply.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

THE CAUSES OF HEADACHE

Some years ago I attempted to make out a list of the causes of headache. When the list reached one hundred I decided that what was needed was a classification of the different kinds—those due to eyestrain, those due to infection, those due to gas pressure from stomach or intestine, those due to a sluggish liver, those due to sinus inflammation, others due to tumors, others due to gland disturbances and others due to other conditions.

The following classification of the causes of headache is simple and logical.

1. The toxic or poison type. This is due to auto-intoxication, poisoning of the body by a part of the body: from intestine, kidneys, liver, thyroid gland.
2. Circulatory—some disturbance in the circulation—valvular disease of the heart, too much blood, high tension of the blood vessels, thin-blood anaemia, lack of oxygen in the blood.
3. Local conditions—eye inflammation, inflammation of the sinuses, above the eyes and back of nose—ear inflammations, inflammation of the brain (meningitis), tumors, changes in the vessels of the brain.
4. Reflex conditions—eyestrain, nose and ear disturbances, facial neuralgias, misplacement of uterus.

You can readily see from the above causes that when treatment is considered it must be something that will remove or attack the cause.

As pointed out by Dr. Bernard Fanjul in his Handbook of Therapy, the first three classes of headache can usually get relief as the causes are not too deeply hidden. It is in the fourth class—reflexes, where cause may be a considerable distance from the head, that it is difficult to locate the cause. The most constant condition caused by eyestrain is headache. The headache may be in one eye, one side of forehead or in both eyes. In fact any part of the head may ache from eyestrain. One-sided headaches due to eyestrain are quite common.

The suggestion is that there should be a sufficiency of outdoor exercise; (b) a simple well-regulated and balanced diet; and regulation of the bowels so as to produce free, daily movements. Sometimes increasing the fat foods—butter, cream, egg yolks—and decreasing the starch foods—bread, potatoes, sugar—helps some cases. After the outdoor exercise, well balanced diet, and bowel regulation have been well established, a visit to an oculist would be good sense. The eyes would be tested when at their best. Eyestrain is believed to cause many headaches than any other single condition.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

CIRCLE

Personally, we feel about the circus that "handsome is as handsome does."

Annually, however, we go, as optimistic as a seed catalogue, prayerful, avert the event, that our fears do not create the gnat.

Today's circus is altogether—or different from its simple forbear.

We have it from the Greek word meaning "circle."

In Roman antiquity, the word, which in its Latin form is identical with ours, connoted not only a ring but an oval arena, enclosed with tier rising upon tier of seats from which spectators looked down upon exhibitions, usually athletic, of man and beast.

It is interesting to note the survival of the early significance of the word in such expressions as Oxford Circus, Regent Circus and others, the proper names for a circular range of houses in London.

Lady (at party)—"Where's that pretty maid who was passing out cocktails a while ago?"

Hostess—"Are you looking for a drink?"

Lady—"No, I'm looking for my husband!"
